'HAMMER MURDER' INQUEST BEGINS

Mrs. Phillips, Accused of Crimes, Smiles as Witnesses Give Testimony

INSANITY TO BE DEFENSE

Los Angeles, July 17.—Dramatic situations were forecast by officials at the inquest here today over the body of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, twenty-year-old widow, victim of the "hammer murder."

Official plans called for the presence of Mrs. Clara Phillips, who is charged with the crime; Mrs. Peggy Caffrey, whom Mrs. Phillips, who gave the county Grand Jury the eye-witness story of the slaying that resulted in the indictment against Mrs. Phillips; A. L. Phillips, oil promoter, husband of the accused woman, who told the sheriff of her alleged confession of the crime to him and Dr. A. F. Wagner, County Autopsy Physician.

Mrs. Phillips, who was brought back here yesterday from Tucson, Ariz., surprised all coming in contact with her by her smiling demeanor. She smiled at everything and everybody from the time she left the train until she was placed in a cell adjoining that of Mrs. Meadows, whom she met on trial for the second time for the murder of J. Belmont Kennedy.

Phillips' Statement Confirmed
Confirmation of the statement of Phillips that he had accidentally met Mrs. Meadows the night before she was slain was given at the inquest by Miss Georgia Tremaine, the dead girl's sister. Miss Tremaine stated, as Phillips had, that the meeting occurred in a traffic jam. She and Mrs. Meadows were riding in the latter's automobile. Phillips was riding in his. Both cars were drawn to the curb a few minutes.

"There was absolutely nothing but accident in that meeting," said Miss Tremaine. "We were greatly surprised when we saw Mr. Phillips. We halted for a few moments and then drove away in opposite directions. We made no reference to any future meetings."

F. A. Tremaine, Mrs. Meadows' father, declared that if possible he would bring damage suits against any persons responsible for gossip about the dead girl.

Mrs. Julia McElroy, a mutual acquaintance of Phillips and Mrs. Meadows, told officers of an alleged visit by Mrs. Phillips to her home five days before the murder.

"She talked wildly about her husband intending to go away with another woman," said Mrs. McElroy. "She told me he had purchased a truck and a suitcase and had said he was going to 'pull out of this mess.' She mentioned Mrs. Meadows' name and I said, 'For heaven's sake, Clara, don't do anything crazy. You know you haven't anything on which to base your suspicions.' She said, 'Well, I know this is the only woman he loves.' The Phillips and Mrs. Meadows and her sister sometimes happened to call at my house at the same time, but I never saw anything out of the way. Mrs. Phillips used to complain to me that her husband was unfaithful to her."

INSANITY TO BE DEFENSE

Mrs. Phillips' counsel started a direct plea of insanity would constitute her defense. They said they were making a "most exhaustive" probe of their client's life and would determine, after its completion, whether the plea would be permanent or temporary insanity. They added they were preparing a lengthy statement for Phillips that would "divulge new and startling revelations pertaining to the case."

Officers said they had discovered apparent discrepancies in the story told by Mrs. Phillips. She declared the day of the slaying she and Mrs. Phillips were at the Meadows' home, where the latter had left her car, and that she was introduced to Mrs. Meadows there and then for the first time. Opposed to this, employees of the park asserted the three women went to the park together.

The Russians expressed the conviction that an accord between Russia and the Powers was quite possible, provided the Powers abandoned their ultimatum for the restoration of confiscated property and clearly indicated what countries would participate in financial assistance for Russia, together with the amount and form of such assistance.

The Russians insisted they were prepared to sign the form of recognition for confiscated property, but wished to postpone this question until they knew the amount of the claims against them and until the question of financial assistance was settled.

DIVORCE FOR H. W. PLOCHER

Wife's Second Attempt to Halt Action Fails
Harry W. Plocher, 3187 Walnut street, received a divorce today from Mrs. Augusta Plocher after she had appeared before Judge Shoemaker and McDevitt a second time to halt proceedings.

The woman was served with notice that the rule for a final decree would be heard July 5. When Judge McDevitt was about to sign the divorce she hurried to the bar and protested, saying she had never deserted her husband. The Court withheld the decree and investigated the case.

When Mr. Plocher appeared today Judge Shoemaker said: "We are sorry for you, but we have carefully examined the testimony in your case and are constrained to grant the divorce to your husband."

RESIDENTS PANIC-STRICKEN WHEN FLOOD SWEEPS TOWN

20,000,000 Gallons of Water Let Loose as Two Dams Break
Chillicothe, Mass., July 17.—(By A. P.)—Twenty million gallons of water flooded a large part of the Willimansett district here early today when Langwald's Dam and another dam at Robert Pond gave way. Residences and business places along Chillicothe street were flooded above the first floors and occupants were forced to flee to the second and third floors for safety. No lives were lost.

The Boston and Maine tracks were washed out in half a dozen places. A cement dam at Langwald's pond was the first to break. The released water rushed down a valley for half a mile, entering Robert's pond. The rush of water tore out the wooden dam at the lower end of this pond and a high wave spread out into a residential district, reaching a depth of seven feet in some places. Panic reigned among residents as they were awakened by the roar of rushing waters. Many rushed out in an effort to escape, but were forced to flee to upper stories.

HADLEY RAPS MORE ITEMS IN SECRET POLICE FUND

Declares Expenses of Mills at Convention Should Be Barred
Controller Hadley announced today that in his opinion an item amounting to "several hundred dollars" to pay the expenses of Superintendent Mills at a convention of police officials had been charged improperly to the much-discussed "secret fund" of $10,000.

Mr. Hadley said the warrant for $500, including payments to Secretary Roush, of the Committee of Seventy, which the Controller held up, is still under discussion.

"It will be taken up in the regular course of business," he said. "Director Contelton told me he would get an opinion from the City Solicitor and let me know. I haven't heard from him since."

From Superintendent Mills it was learned that the convention was in St. Louis in June, 1921, and that the bills already have been paid.

"I went there to investigate traffic conditions and learn new police methods," said the Superintendent, "and I consider it perfectly proper to charge the expenses of the trip to this fund."

FOUR MORE AUDIT REPORTS

Dealing With Kephart and Snyder Terms to Be Issued, Says Lewis
Harrisburg, July 17.—Four more sections of the reports on the audit of the State Treasury will be issued, according to Auditor General Samuel S. Lewis, who today received the matter with representatives of Main & Co., the certified public accountants in charge. Some of them may be ready this week, but Mr. Lewis said he had not yet had opportunity to study them.

Two of the reports will deal with the Kephart term, one being a general summary closing the audit for the four years, and the other two will deal with the first year of the Snyder term.

"The audit of the first year of the Snyder term was made under requirements of the act of 1911, which, the law says, must be done by the Auditor General. I propose to do this annually during my term," said Mr. Lewis.

SUES TO RECOVER JOB

J. B. Yannesss Was Fired From Bureau of Charities
Joseph B. Yannesss, 1601 Butler street, today returned to the Civil Service Commission for reinstatement in his old position of assistant stenographer in the Bureau of Charities and Correction, which he was discharged July 6 by the order of Director Workman.

He asserts he was denied the usual opportunity given in such cases to answer categorically the charges bearing on his dismissal, which in his case were disobedience, neglect of duty, inefficiency, idleness and lack of respect of authority.

These terms are so vague and indefinite, he says, that he was unable to make any specific defense within the five days allowed by law.

Clickquot Club

Pronounced Klee-Ko

GINGER ALE

It's a happy drink

There never was such a friendly drink as Clickquot Club Ginger Ale. You can depend upon it always. Day after day, in summer or winter, in Newport or Los Angeles, the taste never varies. It's a man's drink and a woman's. Little children love it, and it is kind to them. The fussiest people accept it gratefully and are perfectly satisfied. The good-natured, easy-going folk, who usually take anything that comes along, ask for, and often insist upon, Clickquot Club Ginger Ale. There is the secret of Clickquot popularity—they all like it.

But don't think that the happy blend, the taste of Clickquot is all. Within every dancing drop of the golden liquid is purity itself. The water from which it is made is drawn from springs in the cool bed-rock caverns. No ginger but real Jamaica ginger is used, no sugar or fruit juice that is not as pure as can be bought or grown.

There are other Clickquot beverages

All are pure and good. Besides Ginger Ale, Clickquot makes Sarsaparilla, Birch Beer, and Root Beer. We don't know a better way to tell you how pure and good these drinks are than to say they are worthy companions of Clickquot Club Ginger Ale. Get a few bottles of these flavors when you buy a case of Clickquot Club for the home.
